

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A rowing surf board includes a board having two through holes defined through the board and tow oars are respectively pivotably engaged with the through holes. Each oar has a blade
5 portion which is pivotably connected to a distal end beneath the board such that the blade portion is pivoted to reduce a contact area against water when the blade portion is moved forward.